It provides that one of the board shall be a woman. Two classes of certificates are to be issued to candidates. Those passing examination in orthography, reading, writing, arithmetic geography, English grammer, history of the United States, algebra, botany, natural phill sophy, drawing, civil government, constitution and school laws of Iowa, and didactics, are to receive a state certificate, which authorizes the teacher to teach for five years in the public schools of the state. Another will be given to candidates passing examination in the studies required to entitle them to the state certificate, and in addition thereto passing examination and geometry, trigonometry, chemistry, zoology, geology, astronomy, political economy, rhetoric, English literature, general history and such other studies as the board of examiners may require. Japanese Fashions. rrespondence S. F. Chronicle

The Japanese wear no jewelry. No ear-piercing is practiced here, and there is no display among the curio-venders of the hundred and one indispensable articles that go to make up the toilet of the fashionable belle of western civilization. The custom of entering a Japanese house unshed has merit and good sense in it. The floors are covered with a matting made about one and one-half inches thick, and in pieces of about six feet by three feet in dimensions. These are made of straw placed upon a frame and tied together, and then a piece of woven matting made for this use placed over it, and the whole bound on the sides and ends to protect the edges. These pieces cover the floors of the rootas. Wearing shoes would soon destroy them and keep them filled with dirt. At their meals they place their lacquered trays upon the floor, so that it becomes the The extremities of the Japanese are finely moulded. The hands of the

The expression of the hand is almost infantile - delicate by hims and rounded soft and flavor. ly plump and rounded, soft and flexible, with elegantly tapering fingers and altogether symmetrical. They have also very small feet and beautifully turned ankles, but what they are the proudest of is their tar. Hands are left uncovered for the sun and wind to toy with, the feet are accustomed to weeden clogs, but the hair is the thing of beauty that receives attention, and is the object of elaborate care and artistic skill. The only ornaments worn are placed in the hair, and are always in sharp contrast with the glossy blackness of their tresses. Coral ornaments are the favorites. Tortoise shell spears, pins and darts with coral attachments are affixed in the coiffure in profusion. Sometimes a narrow comb is worn, but not as a matter of ornament. Strings of coral beads are utilized with beautiful effect in dressing the hair. Coral is to the Japanese woman "Another lie nail d,' as the wag remarked when the merchant tacked up a sign, "At cost." [Rochester Express.]

To get ahe d, go to the butcher's and buy a calf's head. Of course, it you have one already, you needn't go. No compulsion, you snow.

Leading out of the village of Hope, N. J., is a covered bridge, upon which somebody has written: "Who enters here body has written: "Who enters here women employ hair dressers, it being the property of impossibility for one to sign the hair."

Sometime of coral beads are utilized with elegant high-backs. Strings of coral is to the European female a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Dressing the hair is a mystory that demands the services of an expert, and is a profession. All the women employ hair dressers, it being a lixury to stead of a discomfort.
